

HBI (Home Builders Institute), a 501(c)(3) corporation based in Washington, D.C., is a national leader for career training in the building industry. HBI training programs are taught in local communities across the country to youth and adult populations, veterans, ex-offenders and displaced workers.

Students gain the skills and hands-on experience they need to build careers in construction and related fields. With an 80 percent job placement rate for graduates, HBI training programs consistently benefit our graduates, the communities in which they live and work and our nation.

HBI has been offering training and related products for more than 40 years. Its current portfolio includes HBI Job Corps, HBI PACT, and the HBI Residential Construction Academy.

HBI Programming-at-a-Glance

HBI Pre-Apprenticeship Training

- More than 2,500 youth and adults in 20 states learn building trades through HBI's Pre-Apprenticeship Certificate Training (PACT) curriculum.
- HBI PACT students learn-by-doing as the curriculum offers a 25/75 split of class time and hands-on training through community service projects.

HBI Job Corps

- Under contract with the U.S. Department of Labor, more than 3,000 at-risk youth get real-life, hands-on training in one of 10 building trades with HBI Job Corps.
- HBI's 149 Job Corps programs are at 73 sites nationwide.

HBI Residential Construction Academy

- The HBI Residential Construction Academy offers the only series of national residential construction skills standards-based textbooks and teaching aides – the Residential Construction Academy Series.
- HBI partners with The Ohio State University to certify instructors and NOCTI to certify secondary and post-secondary students taught through HBI Residential Construction Academy Series materials.

HBI Veterans Program

- HBI Veterans training dates back to the Vietnam era when HBI partnered with the U.S. Department of Labor to provide returning service members with career training and employment referrals.
- HBI presently trains veterans in Jacksonville, Miami and Orlando through the Florida Department of Economic Opportunity.
- HBI is also training soon-to-separate service members in Ft. Stewart, Ga.

For More information on HBI training programs, please visit HBI.org.